

Architectural
hideaway in the Inner West

This comprehensive townhome renovation was a blend of adding extensive architectural elements and incorporating hidden storage solutions to create more living space. Sleek joinery was created for the kitchen, living room, home office, bedrooms, bathrooms, stairwell and outdoor barbeque. The joinery was constructed using solid timber Ironbark, Tasmanian oak half round and two-pack polyurethane finish. The black finish in the kitchen and living room has been used on both the exterior and interior of the joinery units. The black and timber wall hides the under-stairwell storage, a washer/dryer, a large pantry, and an integrated refrigerator. The most stunning elements of this home are the rebated mirror in the bathroom, the rounded island in the kitchen, and the 7-metre vertical garden wall in the kitchen.
